

COACH PRACTITIONER PROGRAMME

- Develop an essential workplace skill set.
- Study part-time while working full-time.
- Explore tools and models from Psychology and learn how to apply coaching competencies.

This five-month programme will introduce you to fundamental coaching competencies and build your understanding of psychological principles and how to apply them as a coach.

In addition to being trained in the coaching competencies set by the International Coaching Federation (ICF), you will get personalised feedback and mentoring from ICF credentialed mentor coaches, which contributes to your professional development as a coach.

The Coach Practitioner programme is the first of our two non-credit-bearing short learning programmes, which together cover the same content and practical applications as the first year of our Postgraduate Diploma in Coaching.
